

A top-down photograph of a small glass jar containing melted butter. A single breadstick is dipped into the butter. To the left of the jar is a silver spoon. To the right and slightly behind the jar are several other breadsticks, some whole and some broken. The entire scene is set on a dark, textured surface, possibly a stone or concrete countertop. The lighting is soft, highlighting the golden-brown crust of the breadsticks and the yellow color of the melted butter.
